AFL-CIO to Aid Rackets Probe, Meany States

Labor Head Opposes Hoffa's Stand, Use Of 5th Amendment

CHICAGO (AP) — George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, has placed himself in direct opposition to the views of Teamsters bigwig James R. Hoffa on the matter of cooperation with congressional committees.

Meany reaffirmed his stand against labor leaders invoking the Fifth Amendment to protect themselves. He said the AFL-CIO will cooperate with congressional committees turning up corruption in labor.

Meany Repeats Views

The labor chieftain reiterated his views Monday in a news conference at the end of the first session of his organization's 29th annual Executive Council meeting.

Hoffa, Midwest boss of the Teamsters Union and a growing power in labor ranks, has declared himself against the AFL-CIO amendment policy. He is a prime mover behind a labor group which is attempting to repudiate an Executive Council statement which says:

"It is the policy of the AFL-CIO that if a trade union official decides to take the Fifth Amendment for his personal protection and to avoid scrutiny by proper legislative committees, law enforcement agencies or other public bodies, into alleged corruption on his part, he has no right to continue to hold office in his union."

Hoffa Cites 'Liberty Threat'

The Hoffa-led group contends this stand "has created a substantial threat to liberty and the strength of the union."

The Fifth Amendment to the Constitution holds that a person does not have to give testimony which might incriminate him. Disagreement between Meany and Hoffa on this matter might come to a head when the council takes up the case of President Maurice A. Hutcheson of the Carpenters Union.

Hutcheson took the Fifth Amendment when he appeared before the U.S. Senate Public Works Committee. The committee was investigating reports that Hutcheson and two other Carpenters officials made quick profits from the sale of right-of-way along a road system to the State of Indiana.

Hutcheson, a member of the AFL-CIO Executive Council, has said no union funds were involved. Hoffa is reported siding with Hutcheson.

Thus two powerful organizations in the AFL-CIO, the 850,000-member Carpenters and the 1½-million member Teamsters, possibly could press a conflict with Meany and the council on the amendment issue.

Lisbon Solons Make Lincoln 2-Way Street

LISBON — Village Council, at regular meeting Monday night, again changed Lincoln St. back to a two-way street and will allow parking on west side of the street only.

In May the councilmen made it a one-way street on a six months trial basis, but it has not been working out satisfactorily and since Route 39 is being detoured near Salineville, Council decided to resume normal traffic flow again for the convenience of motorists.

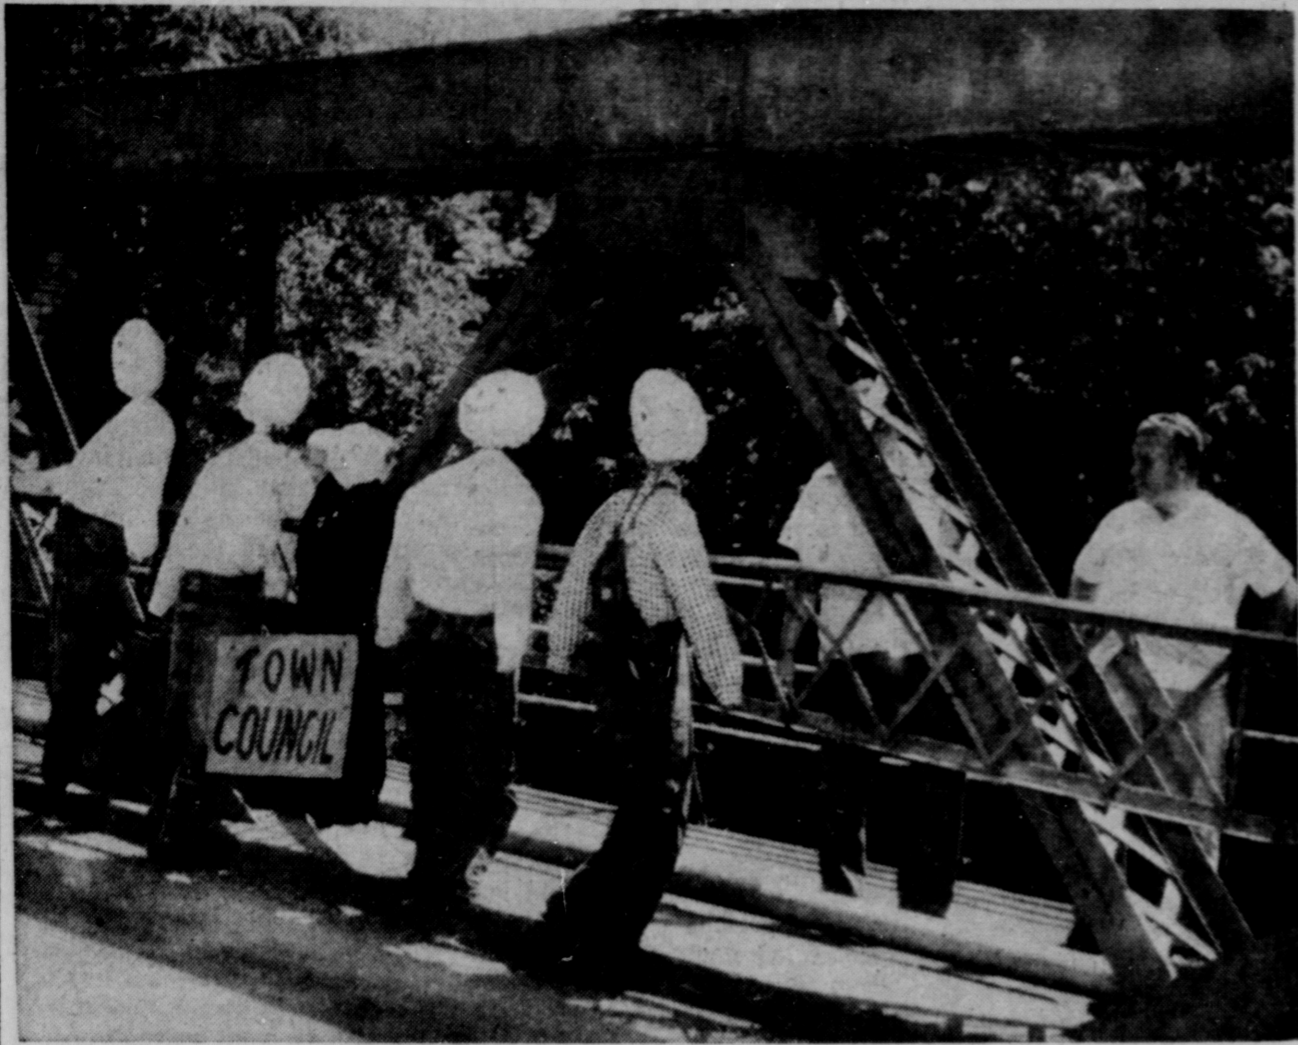

Frank Guy of West Maple St. appeared before Council with reference to sidewalks on Thomas Road between W. Lincoln Way and High St. so that children going to Lincoln School would not have to walk on the road. Mayor Wilbur Warren referred the request to the sidewalk committee composed of Sam Cosma, Fred Reese and Jerry Sanders.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Roberts were before Council to complain of cars going too fast on W. Maple St. Mrs. Harry Grimes asked Council to settle dust on West Maple St. Extension. Her request for water and gas lines was referred to the Board of Public Affairs. Mr. Grimes asked for a street light on Maple Street Extension and Mayor Warren referred it to street light

SALINEVILLE COUNCIL IN EFFIGY. — Five straw dummies, representing Salineville Village Council, attracted passersby as they crossed the Main St. bridge in the southern Columbiana County community yesterday. The effigies were placed Monday by a group of townsfolk opposing Council's acceptance of the truss-type bridges which the county commissioners plan to have erected. Residents want modern deck-type spans but county officials say the county hasn't the money for them.

Opposition Fades, Bridge Work Begun

SALINEVILLE — The opposition to the erection of two superstructure bridges to cross Yellow Creek appeared today to have lost their fight as workmen from the Ohio Bridge Co. of Cambridge began preparing Blazy's Bridge for dismantling.

The replacement job will take about six weeks to complete, and then the Hunter's Bridge replacement project will begin, Ohio Bridge Co. officials say.

Opponents to the building of superstructure bridges to replace the present bridges claim they want flat decked structures with sidewalks built inside the structure as well as a lower type of bridge. Although rumors of possible demonstrations were circulated throughout the village yesterday, workmen were unhindered as the detour signs were put up and equipment was moved in. Columbiana County sheriff's deputies were on the scene but no trouble was reported.

Mayor Karl Lindner who has led the anti-bridge faction was to meet with the foreman of the job and County Engineer Charles O. Snyder sometime this morning to discuss the barricades. Lindner contends that the barricades are placed illegally since the blocking of traffic has not been approved by village officials.

City Council, which Wednesday night reversed their original opposition to constructing the bridges and approved of the measure, may meet Wednesday night to discuss lowering the bridges one foot to lend a more sightly appearance. Council members also have indicated they may request the removal of the sidewalks from the outside of the bridge to the inside. Trusses would be placed on the outer edge.

Five of the six council members had voted for the superstructures at Wednesday night's special meeting, and yesterday morning five clothed dummies were found hanging from the bridge with a sign "town council" attached.

Columbiana County commissioners have awarded a contract for $76,000 to the Ohio Bridge Co. for the project. Both bridges extend across the creek on Ohio Route 39 which is also the village Main St.

Rushmore had testified earlier that Miss de Scaffa, whom he identified as Confidential's chief source of information in Hollywood, had told him she would be willing to have affairs with movie stars to get material for stories.

The defense counsel asked Rushmore: "Did she tell you that she obtained information on any story by sleeping with someone?"

"Yes," said Rushmore. "She said she got the information on the Dillon story from a person she was having an affair with." Asked to name the person, Rushmore replied:

"Clark Gable."

Rushmore said he had no knowledge of her purported affair

Cycle Rider Hurt In Car Collision

A 25-year-old Diamond man was injured Monday night at 7:30 when the motorcycle he was driving was struck by a car operated by Leo McCaffrey, 37, of Youngstown at the east end of the Lake Milton bridge at Lake Milton.

The man, Jalmer Hill, was treated at Youngstown South Side hospital for possible fractured ribs, head injuries and lacerations of the left leg.

Confidential state patrolmen said the mishap occurred when McCaffrey pulled from a side road into the path of Hill's vehicle.

McCaffrey was cited for failing to yield the right of way.

Senate Group Recalls Doria

Probers to Quiz Him About Union Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anthony Doria's denial that he used union funds for personal projects brought further Senate questioning today based on his personal financial records.

The Rackets Committee recalled Doria for more testimony about what happened to $9,620 paid to him from assets of a defunct local union in Meriden, Conn.

Doria is the former secretary-treasurer of the Allied Industrial Workers, formerly known as the AFL United Auto Workers.

The committee heard testimony Monday that money he received by cashier's check for one of the local union's bonds turned up as an investment in a business in which Doria was interested. He contended it was all part of an elaborate check cashing scheme.

He insisted that the union lost nothing, and that he never used union money for his personal benefit.

The committee called "his explanations unsatisfactory, and subpoenaed all his personal financial records. It seized those he had with him to provide a basis for further questioning.

Doria, a 238-pound fast-talking friend of New York racketeer Johnny Dio, provided a sharp contrast to Dio and some other witnesses the committee has heard. They said little, pleading the Fifth

Boy, 13, Slays Pal Who Aided Him in Theft

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP) — Juvenile authorities held 13-year-old Bernie B. Kurtz in jail today. Sheriff Murray Britton said he admitted slaying a playmate because he was afraid the younger boy would snitch about a burglary they perpetrated.

The victim was Johnny Morris, 12. The two boys lived in Henley, a southern Oregon village near Klamath Falls.

Sheriff Britton said Bernie admitted he and Johnny broke into a home Saturday afternoon and took eight guns so they could go on a hunting trip.

They took a pickup truck at Johnny's house, although neither had driven before, and headed for the Bly Mountain country, 55 miles northeast of Klamath Falls. They shot a raccoon and ate it for dinner. The next morning Johnny got homesick and wanted to return to Henley.

Searchers found Bernie in the truck Sunday afternoon and continued the hunt for Johnny. Sheriff Britton said Bernie finally led them to Johnny's body, hidden in a burned log. Johnny had been shot in the back and the head.

More Science, Math OK'd for High Schools

Additional Credit of Each Gets Approval Of Ohio School Board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The importance of science in the Atomic Age was reflected in a State School Board meeting Monday night that approved additional required training in mathematics and science for high school students.

The board approved adding one additional credit in either science or mathematics to the one credit of each now required of students. This would boost the overall number of credits in required subjects from eight to nine, leaving seven electives for the 16 credit units needed for graduation.

Cites Teacher Shortage

The board also heard a report prepared by Harold J. Bowers, director of the State Division of Teacher Education and Certification, that detailed the teacher shortage problem.

The report, read by E. E. Holt, state superintendent of education, pointed out that there are at present 1,200 unfilled teaching positions in the Ohio public school system.

The report noted that the shortage could be made up if those who have left the classroom to take up other occupations would return.

The report added that approximately 8.6 per cent of the teacher force must be replaced to make up for retirements and that 2,484 new teachers are needed annually to meet the demands of increased enrollment.

By 1961, Bowers' report stated, Ohio will need 76,037 certified teachers. To meet the added number of teachers needed to make up this figure, two of every three freshmen entering Ohio colleges this fall would have to enroll as teacher trainees, Bowers said.

The board refused to reconsider its rejection of a request to transfer an area south of Washington Court House to that city's school district for construction of a new $645,000 school building.

W. A. Smith, superintendent of Washington Court House schools, and Robert Turhouse, president of the city school board, tried unsuccessfully to get the board to change its mind. They pointed out that the city had taken an option on the proposed site of the school.

Fayette County opponents to the transfer argued that the city is using the proposed transfer as a

Red Spy to Appear For Court Hearing

NEW YORK (AP) — Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel of the Soviet Secret Police appears in Brooklyn Federal Court today for a hearing in connection with the spy charges against him.

He will appear without a lawyer, unless he can make some last minute arrangement for one.

Monday lawyer John J. Abt turned down the job of defending Abel. The alleged spy had asked to see Abt, who has been counsel for the communist party here and for many of its leaders.

Abt said he had a 15-minute talk with the prisoner. He said he told him he could not serve because of other commitments.

Later, Abel sent word that he had "no one presently in mind" to defend him. If he is unable to find a lawyer, the court will appoint one.

Today's hearing was scheduled to settle the matter of bail and permit the defendant to enter a plea. Abel has been held without bail so far.

Abel, 55, is accused of having operated a military-atomic spy ring for the Kremlin in this country. For the last four years he posed as an artist and photographer with a studio in Brooklyn.

U.S. Counterspy Ends 12-Year Masquerade

NEW YORK (AP) — A pudgy little man in a camel's-hair coat was about to leave his hotel room in Munich, Germany. Suddenly there was a knock.

The man opened the door and was handed a cable. He read a one-word message: "Cinemas."

It was a code word and meant: "Come home. Your life is in danger."

Thus, on last Jan. 19, the curtain fell on the fantastic clock-and-dagger career of Boris Milhailovich Morros.

For 12 years the Russian-born Hollywood producer acted as a master counterspy for the United States. The perilous role took him to obscure hotels, dimly lit cafes and dark street corners from Paris to Moscow.

Monday Morros, 62, told his tale at a news conference in the office of Acting U.S. Atty. Thomas B. Gilchrist Jr.

Morros' testimony before a federal grand jury earlier this year brought an espionage indictment against Mr. and Mrs. Jack Soble and Jacob Albam, and against Mr. and Mrs. George Zlatovski. Albam and Mrs. Soble were sentenced to 5½ years in prison. Soble will be sentenced Sept. 18.

The balding producer and music director told in a thick Russian accent how he hoodwinked the Soviets into thinking he was a spy for them. Yet, the whole time, he was sending reports to the FBI.

"I was never a spy in my life," he said at the outset, "and during the war I acquired a kind of bravery, and I guess I behaved properly in the 12 years of my activity."

"That is the only reason I am alive. I don't think I could do it again."

Morros said neither his wife nor his friends had "any inkling of my activity, which took me to Europe 68 times, including Moscow and East Berlin."

He said posing as a spy for the Russians wasn't easy.

"I hated everything they stood for and when I had to express myself to high Russian officials and to American spies employed by them in terms of supporting their vicious ideology, I really had to do a more realistic acting job than any of the players whom I had ever directed in Hollywood."

"My life and my mission depended on that."

Morros, born to a family of musicians in St. Petersburg (now Leningrad), came to the United States in 1922 and became a naturalized citizen. He said he went back to Russia in 1935 to visit his mother. In 1945 the Russians asked him to become an agent for them.

"I went straight to the FBI and reported what had happened," he said. "I was told to agree to the Russian proposals and make my contacts."

Morros said the Russians asked him to get information on strategic materials and products. He handed them documents cleared by the FBI.

He said an FBI agent was never more than a stone's throw away from him on his trips to Europe. One day he went to the Soviet Embassy in Paris to see a Russian film. He sat between a Soviet official and an FBI agent whom he had passed off as a "comrade in arms."

Morros said he didn't ask for money from the Russians and didn't receive any. He said he spent two million dollars of his own money on his espionage work and is now broke.

Finally, Morros was put on the Party Leaders Predict Rate Bill's Passage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of both parties predicted House passage today of a bill to raise mailing charges, but a fight was in prospect over a 4-cent letter stamp.

Both Representatives McCormack (D-Mass.), the majority and minority leaders, told newsmen they expect the House to approve the postal rate increases asked by President Eisenhower to help offset a postal operating deficit.

Martin specifically said he expects approval of a raise from 3 to 4 cents for mailing a letter. This is the bill's principal money-raising feature.

Neither forecast what would happen to the measure in the Senate. Martin was asked about reports the Senate might tie the postal rate bill into another measure which would raise the pay of postal workers. He said he didn't know whether that might be done, but predicted Eisenhower would veto such a combined measure.

The House has voted pay increases for postal and other government workers. The Senate has not yet acted. There has been speculation that passage of a postal rate increase as well as the pay raise measures might make it easier to override an expected veto of the pay raise legislation.

Eisenhower has opposed any general pay increase for government employees as potentially inflationary.

The rate bill would raise immediately the rates on first-class letter and air mail, and provide graduated increases on second-class (newspapers and magazines) and third-class (advertising matter) mailings costs.

In all, the increases would bring, by 1960, an estimated 527½ million dollars a year in added postal revenues.

The Post Office Department has estimated postal revenues now are running about 651 million dollars less than it costs to run the service.

The department estimated the first-class increases would bring in $365,800,000 in additional revenue. They include raising first-class letters from 3 to 4 cents an ounce, air mail letters from 6 to 7 cents an ounce, air mail cards from 4 to 5 cents, and post cards and drop letters from 2 to 3 cents. A drop letter is one mailed in a post office for delivery to a box in that office.

Morros said the Russians asked him to get information on strategic materials and products. He handed them documents cleared by the FBI.

Ship With 50 Ill Aboard Delayed

NEW YORK (AP) — A transatlantic liner with 50 of its passengers stricken with influenza docked at 8 a.m. today but disembarkation was delayed pending determination how best to transfer the sick persons.

It was not known whether those affected had the Asiatic flu.

During the crossing of the Arosa Sky, carrying 847 passengers, of whom 647 are foreign exchange students, about 200 persons were stricken.

On arrival 22 persons were reported in the ship hospital and 28 confined to their cabins.

All but two of the cases were among the young students. One first class passenger and one crewman became ill.

City and federal health officials and doctors boarded the ship when she dropped anchor at quarantine Monday night. A large police detail was at the dock to help with disembarkation.

Kremlin Power

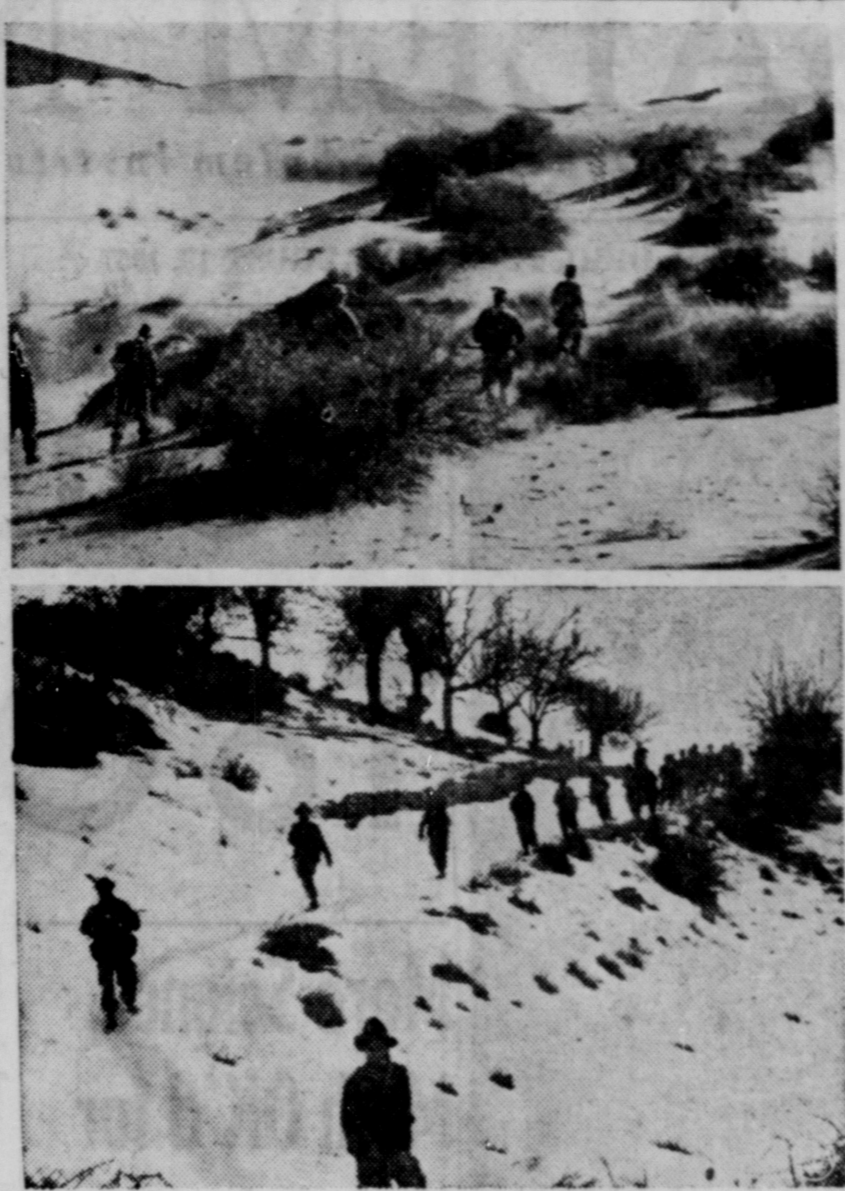

By VICTOR RIESEL

Victor Riesel

MUNICH (By the Central Committee of the Communist party. The Red Army doesn't play any independent political role. Marshal Zhukov, despite his popularity with the Russian masses, couldn't press a button and order troops to surround the Kremlin. He couldn't oust Comrade Khrushchev. The marshal is minister of defense, but he cannot even fire any high policy-making official of the Soviet Defense Ministry without permission of the Communist party Central Committee. He could not remove a high ranking army marshal or an admiral of consequence without asking the party's okay. The point is made here that Marshal Zhukov is in the President's, the Communist party inner sanctum, because he is a devout and active Communist. The fact that he is a military power is secondary. IT'S SECONDARY because Zhukov and all his men run second to the "Zampolit." This "Zampolit" is the political bureau of the Army. Its grim officials are deputy commanders of every Army unit. Co-commanders would be a better description. They can—and have—countermanded orders of the Army and Navy unit chiefs from the battalion level right up to generals and admirals. They don't owe their allegiance to the official commanding officer even if the C.O. is a Red marshal. They report directly to their own Zampolit superior officers. Their supreme command, which has as much power in the Red Army and Navy as the regular fighting officer cadre, takes its orders from the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee Armed Forces Section. This section controls Zhukov. It could fire him tomorrow. True, it would have a fight on its hands. But not because of the Army, which is Communist party dominated. ZHUKOV WOULD be hard to bounce because he is popular as a Communist activist. That would be his strength. If Zhukov, on the other hand, did try to order his troops into a political fight, these orders would and could be countermanded by the Zampolit officers in the Defense Ministry. These are the political commissars in the armed forces. Remember that they've been there, growing in power, ever since Stalin died. If Zhukov and the Red Army were playing an independent role, they would have dumped the Zampolit after the "Man of Steel" died. Zhukov didn't touch the Zampolit because he is a practicing Communist. Zhukov joined with Khrushchev because he hated Molotov, Malenkov and Co., for it was they who had helped Stalin exile him to the Odessa Military District. This would be equivalent to putting our own Gen. Marshall in charge of Fort Ticonderoga and a HOT AND COLD WAR — In revolt-torn Algeria, the French Foreign Legion battles the rebel nationalists in difficult terrain ranging from searing deserts to freezing snow-covered mountains. At the top, the setting is like that of a typical adventure story of the fabled force, as a patrol follows tracks through a wasteland of rolling dunes at the outskirts of the Sahara Desert. At the same time, other legionnaires, bottom, press their search for rebel fighters as they move along a snow-covered ridge in the mountainous Atlas area.

Canadian border patrol after the war. Khrushchev also won support because he took the big guns away from the MVD, helped kill its chief, Lavrenti Beria, and eased up on political terror.

THE SECRET POLICE is there, of course, now called the KGB, run by Ivan Serov. But Khrushchev keeps discreetly out of sight. Without a tough secret police, Khrushchev is not really the boss, either. Actually the real power, the experts say, rests in the tough Communist Party Central Committee with its hundreds of members. It just isn't being pushed around as it was in Stalin's days. It can even snap back at the top 11-man Presidium, which was its constant and is giving it more and more power in the districts from Leningrad to Vladivostok. In other words, the gigantic Soviet Communist party and its commissars with regional power are taking themselves seriously. They believe what they have been reading about a dictatorship of the proletariat—and no one man controls them yet. There will be a dictator soon. But not all the experts will put their money on Khrushchev.

Shortcomings of the Eyes

Enormous numbers of us use eyeglasses for close work or all the time. There are many shortcomings of the eyes. Among the more common are "nearsightedness" or "farsightedness." Nearsightedness is spoken of medically as myopia. It seems to run to some extent in families. Myopia often begins early in life but its further development can stop at any time. The eyeball is almost always lengthened in myopia. The distance between the greater than it should be. The cause is not exactly known. It seems to be particularly common among the highly educated groups and those who study excessively or do a lot of close work with their eyes. Trying to read poor print, poor lighting, faulty posture, poor construction of desks and poor health all seem to contribute to the development of nearsightedness. Those who do not get enough outdoor exercise also have a tendency to myopia. In many cases moderate myopia develops fairly early in youth but ceases to become worse about the time of full maturity. In those in whom severe nearsightedness continues to become worse it is called "progressive myopia." Most of those who are nearsighted do not have any particular symptoms except that objects seen in the distance appear blurred. They can continue to do close work like reading or sewing with perfect comfort. They need concave glasses to see distant objects well. A certain amount of farsightedness is extremely common. Many young people need glasses to help them read or to do other close work without fatigue. Hyperopia (farsightedness) is often complicated by astigmatism, which is another condition involving a difference in the curvature of the eye. When the two are combined the lens in the glasses has to correct not only for the farsightedness but also for the astigmatism. An hyperopic, or farsighted eye, needs a convex glass of just the right strength to cause the light rays to focus clearly at the back of the eye, or retina. This corrects the difficulty so that objects held closer to the eye become clear and sharp instead of blurred and indistinct. There is also a condition called presbyopia. This involves a loss of the focusing ability in the older years. It may affect normal, nearsighted or farsighted people. Correction requires a stronger glass for reading than is needed for distance. If distance correction is necessary bifocals (or even trifocals) are often advised.

CARNEGIE HALL'S MOVE — The answer to that oft-asked question, "Whose move?" turns out to be Carnegie Hall's move. And this is an artist's sketch of the checkerboard skyscraper that will replace Carnegie Hall, which will be demolished. The colorful, 44-story vermilion porcelain structure will become a part of the Manhattan skyline in 1959. The new building will cost about 22 million dollars.

Grade Crossing Mishaps Claim Three Ohioans

GRAFTON, Ohio (AP)—Three teenagers are the latest victims of a series of grade crossing accidents in northern Ohio.

Patricia Young, 16; Hayward E. Goldsmith, 18, and Argil F. Stalaker, all of Grafton, died Monday afternoon when a Cleveland-bound New York Central train struck a car driven by Goldsmith at a crossing on Ohio 57.

Friday, three persons were killed by an Erie train near Ashland, and a mother and two children died when a New York Central train hit them in Huron.

A witness to the accident here was Daniel W. Arthington, who operates the gates at the crossing. Deputy B. J. La Crosse quoted him as saying the gates were down, but not broken. He surmised that the gates were not cleared down, or the car swerved around them.

The deputy later tried the gates and found that the one in the lane used by Goldsmith's car came down slower than the others.

Miss Young and Goldsmith were thrown clear of the wreckage. The other victim was pinned in the twisted metal, which was jammed under the front of the locomotive and carried 600 yards down the track.

Skelton's Family Parts for Awhile

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Red Skelton family is on the move again today—only this time in different directions.

The comedian and his business manager, Bo Roos, flew to Mexico City Monday on business. Mrs. Skelton and the two children, Valentina, 10, and leukemia-stricken Richard, 9, leave today for a Honolulu vacation.

Skelton said he is interested in obtaining Mexican toys for concessions at a projected amusement center at nearby Ocean Park. He plans to proceed to Spain and Italy to look at toys, then continue around the world via Australia to Honolulu, where Skelton and his manager will meet Mrs. Skelton and the children in about three weeks.

The family returned only recently from an extensive European tour.

Labor Surplus Reported In Southern Ohio Region

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Portsmouth-Chillicothe, Ohio, area has been placed on the list of regions with a substantial labor surplus, the U. S. Department of Labor reported Monday.

The department said the area has suffered from a shutdown of a large shoe factory and slight payroll losses in the fields of primary metals, railroad transportation, construction and coal mining.

The department reported that "light hiring in paper and atomic energy (fields) provides only partial offset of these declines."

Veterans Guide

A widow's income does not affect her eligibility for death compensation payments if her veteran husband died of a service-connected condition, William Holsinger, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Cleveland, said today.

Some misunderstanding may exist on this point, Holsinger explained. "Death compensation," he added, "may be paid the widow of a veteran whose death was the result of his service. Her other income has no bearing on its payment."

"However, income limitations do apply to a VA death pension, which may be paid the widow of a wartime veteran who died of a non-service-connected condition."

Senators to Hear FRB Head Explain Tight-Money Policy

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—William McChesney Martin Jr., goes before the Senate finance committee today to explain and defend his tight money policy. He and others are trying monetary controls to iron out the economic wrinkles of boom and bust.

His appearance follows close on two steps on the high interest rate front which might seem to have opposite aims.

1. The Federal Housing Administration has just raised the interest rates to be permitted on government guaranteed home mortgages. The aim: to encourage more home building and start phase of the economy booming again.

2. The Federal Reserve Board which Martin heads has just raised the charge it makes on money borrowed from it by its member banks.

The main aim of higher interest rates and tight bank credit has been to discourage the business expansion boom. Industry has been building new plants and modernizing old ones at a rate the money managers thought inflationary. The aim of tight credit: to slow down the boom and hold off a possible bust.

Thus Washington would seem to be priming the pump of one boom while tightening the values on another.

Critics either question the effectiveness of either step or charge angrily that they aid one set of citizens at the expense of another.

The answer of the money managers is that in both cases—higher discount rate for banks, higher interest rates for mortgage lenders—they aren't leading but following a trend and thus bringing their interest rates in line with those already in effect in other sections of the money market.

FHA says it is making its interest rates realistic because they were so low that mortgage money couldn't be found.

The federal reserve says it is merely getting in step with the commercial banks which had already raised the rates they charge their borrowers in industry and trade.

Skeptics point out that despite steadily rising interest rates the volume of new securities and other forms of borrowing by business have risen steadily to new heights.

They say that interest rates prove a small consideration. For one thing with corporate income taxes around 50 per cent a corporation that borrowed from the bank at its old prime rate of 4 per cent was actually paying only 2 per cent. Now that the rate has gone to 4 1/2 per cent the corpora-

Observers who question the effect of interest rates believe the real criterion is the total volume of money and credit in the lending pool. Until this gains through increased savings they doubt if interest rates will reverse their trend—unless Martin should reverse his stand.

Steel's Connections

Roger M. Blough's forthright defense of the steel industry and United States Steel Corp. in particular against the accusation of being responsible for price inflation shows which way the president of the largest steel producer thinks the economic wind is blowing. He is ready for a storm.

The president of United States Steel was testifying before the subcommittee on antitrust and monopoly of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

He hammered home two points. In subsequent testimony, other officers of United States Steel hammered them home, too. They were: 1. The steel industry's attempts to cover its rising costs of production are not the cause of inflation but a result of inflation.

2. The accusation that the steel industry's pricing structure is the cause of inflation and therefore needs political investigation is based on fuzzy-minded economic theory, plus anti-business animus and looks like the opening wedge for government price control. This is the storm he sees coming.

Mr. Blough thereupon said he saw no connection between inflation and steel, other than the fact steel, itself, is a victim of inflation.

This hard-and-fast conclusion, which will be shared in all probability by other witnesses before the Senate subcommittee speaking for the steel industry, will take some understanding to make it believable.

There may be no connection that can be shown by statistics, or the logic of business management. Nevertheless, there is a connection.

It is the unique status of steel in an industrial civilization so heavily dependent on steel of all kinds that the 20th century is sometimes called "the steel age."

Within the steel industry, moreover, the company headed by Mr. Blough plays the role of bellwether because of its prestige. While it is true, as Mr. Blough declared in his testimony, that it cannot stop anything as widespread and overwhelming as inflation, it cannot be denied that it has tremendous influence.

If it did not have this kind of influence, United States Steel would not be the bellwether of the steel industry.

It might be proved beyond question that the steel industry is no different from other industries as far as its inability to start or stop an economic trend is concerned, but the fact is that its decisions are reflected and compounded in myriads of smaller decisions. Whether these smaller decisions in other industries are justified or not, they do occur and they do have a powerful impact on the nation's economy.

Mr. Blough and his associates have made a strong presentation of their case for the complete innocence of the steel industry against the accusation that it is responsible for price inflation. Other steel men and spokesmen for other industries may be expected to make similarly strong cases as they are asked to testify.

But if the net effect of all their testimony is only to relieve industry of responsibility for economic trends and upsets, the public is going to be left in a quandary.

What is to be done about economic problems if the people who know most about them admit they are unable to do anything? Would that not constitute a peremptory invitation to the politicians, who know least of all, to nibble?

Everything That Moves

James R. Hoffa's apparent ambition to put everything that moves under the jurisdiction of the Teamsters Union, with himself as the union's new president, seem likely to become unionism's most sensational story of the next year.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell hinted at one of the reasons why a sensation is in the making when he warned in a speech to unionists in Massachusetts that union mergers would be watched by Washington as closely as business mergers. This means that the federal government at long last has acknowledged the danger in unionism so big it becomes a form of restraint on trade.

It may prove to be Hoffa's destiny in unionism to do to unionism what never happened to it before — to bring it within the meaning of federal laws which forbid others to do what Hoffa would be doing if he made a grab for control over everything that moved.

The resulting monopoly of motion would be several thousand times more formidable than anything ever dreamed of by financiers who work with mergers.

When the McClellan committee gets through asking questions about the connection between Hoffa and Johnny Dio, the fright-wig proprietor a few million more citizens than have thought about them so far.

Lots of people are spreading the dirt these days, but not necessarily in a garden.

It's always all right to let well enough alone if you're sure it is.

Vanishing Rights

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Freedom of Press Abridged in New England

The people of New England lost one of their most precious "civil rights" over the weekend and one of their most important constitutional rights, too, when the principal daily newspapers of Boston were shut down.

The constitution says plainly that Congress shall make no law which abridges the freedom of the press.

But using the privilege of organizing workers into labor unions as granted by the labor-management laws — passed by Congress in 1935 and 1947 — several labor unions by concerted action shut down a publishing operation.

The right to strike is only an individual right. Any man can refrain from working if he pleases. Likewise, he has a right to stay on the job, even if a strike is ordered by his union.

There is, however, no constitutional right bestowed upon any labor union — acting as a group or organization — to order its own members or to conspire to influence other labor unions also, to close down a publishing property and thus deprive the press of its freedom as guaranteed by the First Amendment.

The Supreme Court of the United States lately has been zealous in protecting the rights of Communists, Communist sympathizers and their organizations when refusing to answer questions asked by investigating committees of Congress.

THE NEW RULE is that the First Amendment protects the individual even against inquiry by Congress. But now when the right of individuals to publish is impaired in Boston, what will the Department of Justice do about it?

The same question arose in 1953 when a similar strike occurred in New York City.

Many of the unions which were engaged in the mechanical and other branches of the publishing operation had no dispute with the employer but refrained from "crossing a picket line."

In Boston, out of the various unions involved at the newspaper plants, all but one — the mailers — signed contracts and were willing to work.

The publishers offered to submit the controversy over wages to arbitration. But those unions which were not parties to the dispute nevertheless announced that they would support the strike and did order their members not to cross picket lines.

Such concerted action shut down the whole plant. Thus a strike by 250 mailers forced out of work 5,000 other employees.

THE EXISTING federal statute (section 241 of title 18, U. S. Code) says in part:

"If two or more persons conspire to injure, oppress, threaten or intimidate any citizens in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States or because of his having exercised the same . . . they shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than 10 years or both."

The foregoing is the "law of the land" today but the Department of Justice has been hesitant heretofore to apply it. In the pending "civil rights" bill — as passed by the House — the attorney general would be empowered to seek civil injunctions wherever any constitutional right is impaired.

This, of course, would remove all doubt as to the power of the federal government to prosecute "conspiracies" to interfere with the freedom of the press.

THERE IS, nevertheless, even under present law, adequate authority to question in the courts the concerted action of labor unions in Boston in the last few days.

A newspaper might get along somehow without the work of a mailers union, for instance but it cannot publish if the mechanical departments and reporters engage in a strike of "sympathy."

This form of "sympathetic action" is supposed to be legal in the ordinary industrial dispute but is it lawful when the end result is to abridge the freedom of the press?

That's the real question which now confronts the Department of Justice and it certainly cannot argue that it must ride herd on officials of state governments in the operation of their voting regulations but can ignore the denial of constitutional rights to newspapers upon which the community depends for so much of its current information.

Are the loyal citizens of New England less important than the Communists who are so effectively protected by the Supreme Court when they claim the protection of the first amendment?

PERHAPS the answer is that a politically minded administration here may be afraid of the labor union vote, though 99 per cent of the workers of the country, if the issue were explained to them, would probably wish to see a free press upheld.

For there is no practical difference between a threat to close down a plant because the members of some one union are not paid the wages they demand and a threat to shut up a newspaper because the unions or their leaders dislike its editorial policies.

It is the assumed right of private persons to abridge the freedom of the press — while acting under the protection of a law of Congress — which is the basic issue.

There has been a lot of public discussion lately about the "freedom to gather information" in Red China by American newsmen. But this is valueless as is all the information gathered elsewhere if "freedom to publish" is denied anywhere inside America.

New York Herald Tribune

End Not In Sight

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The dog days may be taking some of the zip out of the consumer but they aren't taking much out of the steady rise of prices and costs here and there in the economy.

Food, apparel and a multitude of gadgets and services are being pressured upward by the latest increases.

And the shadow of more to come falls across the news columns today.

Industrial leaders appear to be counting on a big fall pickup in business activity to make these price increases stick. If the new boom doesn't come along on schedule to put the idle industrial facilities to work, some of the latest price hikes may be rescinded.

But the belief in built-in inflation seems to be growing, a self-priming spiral of wages and prices which only a balky public could halt.

The threat of higher prices to come at the stores and in the commodity markets lies in these things:

Wholesale prices of food have climbed to the highest point since June of 1955 and are now 5 per cent above a year ago. Retail food prices seem sure to make another advance soon in sympathy.

Manufacturers ordering materials for fall production will be paying higher prices for steel and aluminum products.

Prices of some other metals that have fallen in recent weeks could be bolstered and rise again as the result of congressional action. Hearings on a proposed hike in the tariff on lead and zinc are underway in Washington with the object of aiding those faltering industries.

It's a long path from the mine to the car dealer's showroom or the appliance store, but in time the price increases in industrial materials will have their effect on retail prices.

Auto tire prices are going up as a result of higher wages in the rubber factories.

Higher wages in the cement industries seem sure to increase the cost of construction soon.

Price increases in woolen fabrics and in acetate staple which goes into clothing and home furnishings may send the cost of apparel higher this fall and next spring.

The cost of travel and of moving freight may go up.

All of these things add up to headaches in the cost accounting departments of American business. Operating costs continue to rise and the end is not in sight.

No man likes a dinner of cold shoulder and hot tongue.

Parting is painful when you bear down too hard on the comb.

Cancer 'Witch Doctors'

By MERLE OLIVER

GRAND RAPIDS The nation-wide battle against cancer quacks — "witch doctors" who commit murder — was spotlighted here last week by a group representing the Michigan State Medical Society.

There are more than 4,000 cancer quacks in the U. S. today, says the cancer quackery subcommittee of this state's Cancer Coordinating Committee.

Its chairman is Dr. William A. Hyland of Grand Rapids.

Causing the deaths of many cancer patients by keeping them from genuine treatment until it is too late, the typical quack is described in a committee report as a "sly, shrewd character, wholly without scruples or moral sense."

"HE IS IN the business for one reason only — to make a killing, which he does in both ways. He trades on the forlorn hopelessness of incurable cancer. But he is something far worse — a murderer."

"The quack does not distinguish between the early cancer patient who has a reasonable chance of being cured by proper treatment and the far gone case for whom nothing can be done."

Dr. Hyland says that "persons who believe that a quack has cured them never had cancer."

The quackery subcommittee offers the following clues on how to recognize a quack:

1. A person who says he has a secret remedy is a quack.

2. If he advertises ability to heal, he is a quack.

3. If he boasts of great powers of diagnosis by means of complicated machines, he's engaged in the racket.

4. Any person, doctor or layman, who guarantees a cure is a quack.

THE AIM of the cancer quackery subcommittee is to gather information and propose legislation which will control the activities of cancer quacks and possibly put many of them out of business.

But "dealing with cancer quacks" when someone in the family is hopelessly ill, they will reach for anything, and you can't blame them. A weakness of the medical profession of which the quack takes advantage is the very integrity of physicians.

"They admit to members of the family that the cancer is advanced and little can be done for the patient. This leaves the patient and the family in a position where the quack finds it easy to enter with his generous promises at a moment when the family is at low ebb, mentally, due to the shocking information."

Quacks are pleasant persons, skilled in dealing with the public and creating a good impression, Dr. Hyland said. Meeting one of these charlatans, the average person is easily deceived.

But "the only cancers that the quacks cure are imaginary," he declared.

"THEY TAKE the last dollar from the families of the hopelessly ill. They steal from persons who do not have cancer. But their worst crime is keeping cancer patients from getting real treatment until it is too late."

Some quacks substitute biopsy materials taken from cancer sufferers for normal tissue from prospective patients to make it appear that they have the disease, he said.

Anybody in doubt about whether a healer is a quack can obtain information from the county medical society, the state society or the local chapter of the American Cancer Society.

The only treatments for cancer used by ethical doctors on other than an experimental basis are surgery and radiation, either by X-ray or radioactive isotopes such as cobalt-60.

Wild Children

By TRUMAN TWILL

A phrase I remember from the aftermath of World War II keeps repeating itself as I read about adding 600 policemen in New York City to handle young hoodlums who have been terrorizing its inhabitants.

Wild children . . .

That is what they were called after the war when packs of them ran through the streets of Berlin, stealing, attacking, pillaging, living from hand to mouth in the ruins of the German capital.

They had no parents. They had no basis of orderly behavior to stand on, because they had grown up in the chaos of a disorganized society.

No one had the time or the inclination to round them up, put them in a safe place until they had been taught how to live in society and then release them into the world they had turned against.

Later on, this was done in Berlin and other war-torn cities. But only in New York City, where not a building was destroyed and not a single casualty listed, is there a move afoot to add hundreds of policemen to cope with wild children.

I think it is the right name for them and that if it were used, instead of "juvenile delinquents," all of us would think more clearly about what happens when kids grow up with no control.

It is no harder to understand, when it is thought about in this way, than it is to understand why domesticated animals that are not taken care of properly, become unmanageable.

Dogs, hares, cattle and cats must be taught to live under restraint. They must be tamed before they can be tolerated — tamed to do what they will be expected to do in their niche.

Kids must be tamed, too. Multiply one, two, or three of the wild kids all of us know personally, multiply by a million and you have the impersonal problem that New York City is trying to solve. Some kids are born bad and will end up on the hangman's scaffold. But all kids are born wild and must be tamed by understanding and love, plus a dash of hot-hand now and then, before they can be turned loose. The bad ones then have to be put away.

If we did not take pride in being civilized, the problem could be swept under the sociological rug and forgotten. No one runs a fever in Port Said if packs of kids act like coyotes instead of human beings. The same kind of a problem in Moscow is muffled in official censorship. It breaks into the open in Rome sometimes, but only in the U. S. A. are confessions of social failure made in open meetings.

No doubt about it, there has been an incredible goof when wild children run in packs like jackals, when adults wring their hands and wonder how such a thing could happen in fat and friendly America; when even the experts lane into bafflegab to conceal their ignorance.

The explanation is as simple as what keeps any other domesticated animal in line — discipline and loyalty.

Wild children in the United States . . .

It's incredible.

So They Say

If that man who knows so much about business will offer me a million dollars to sell out, he is going to make a sale in a hurry. — President Eisenhower, on news reports he's worth about one million dollars.

Blackjack Totin' Mommer

Here's a new one in the crime wave and self-protection situation. A man arrested charged with carrying a blackjack told the court it belonged to HIS MOTHER! And the other calmly said this was true and that she carried it "for self-protection."

Mommer, armed with a blackjack, makes a chilling picture . . . It is as hard to take as "Whistler's Mother" not in a rocker but behind a rock and toting a sawed-off shotgun.

FATHER JOHN S. KENNEDY of the Catholic Transcript tells of the case in his readable column and seems as surprised as anybody else by the "It's mother's blackjack" plea.

He thinks that mother, a woman in her sixties, was just springing to her son's defense, but modern civilization has become so highly dangerous that wives, sisters and even grandmothers would seem justified in going about, blackjack in hand, just in case.

There are areas in any city today where a smart mother would not dare go out without her blackjack, in fact.

THE COURT was skeptical, too, about this particular case and ordered the son to stand trial. But why so much skepticism?

Our streets, parks, subways and buses are scenes of frequent crime. By all past concepts a blackjack and mommer don't belong together and we don't want Mother's Day ever to be linked up with "National Guided Missiles Week" or "Let Mumsey Get in The First Blow Month."

But it is possible that any blackjack-toting mommer, if put on the witness stand, would testify frankly:

"Sure it's my blackjack. Why the big surprise, judge? Crime is so rampant I am thinking of carrying a PAIR OF THEM! In fact I favor a Blackjack Carrying Mothers' Club, violence being where it is in America today. I need this court's support, not its criticism."

"How come your son carried it?" the judge might inquire.

"I asked him to take it downtown to have it reconditioned and a few more pounds of lead added, yerroner," could be the answer.

THE MORE you think of it the more you are inclined to think that mothers armed with blackjacks or similar weapons are more numerous than is believed, and that they are increasing. We asked the missus about this today and she admitted she had been shopping for one.

"I am waiting," she said, "for somebody to turn out a blackjack especially designed for women's wear."

I think it should be stylized, come in optional colors and be equipped with an attractive strap so it can be slung over a mother's shoulder." (We told her she would look good in a pink blackjack with green polka dots.)

TITO AND KHRUSHCHEV appear to have signed up in a mutual admiration society pact and it looks as if they would get together in a big brother act if it takes America's last dollar.

Maxwell Gluck, the much discussed new ambassador to Ceylon, has a business partnership in New York, gives Ohio as his home state but got the sponsorship from Ceylon from Kentucky, where he owns one of the most famous horse breeding farms in the country . . . He is said to be much better fitted for the job than the publicity has indicated and his friends insist it is premature to say Ike is "stuck with Gluck."

Wherever Mike Todd encounters any lack of full co-operation in presenting "Around the World in Eighty Days" in the bigger theaters he takes over a group of smaller ones in the same city . . . And installs ticket booths at gas stations!

Congress Has Set No Records, Has Passed Only 6 Major Laws

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—It won't be from fatigue if Congress quits in a week or so. There's talk it may. This Congress, starting in January and run by the Democrats, has set no records.

At the most it has passed six pieces of major legislation. All were asked by President Eisenhower.

And it killed one of its biggest items: federal aid to education. For this, Eisenhower can thank his own House Republicans, who played fast and loose and just a little too cute with the federal aid bill.

First, they teamed up with Northern Democrats to attach an anti-segregation amendment which was poison to Southern Democrats, who'd rather have no bill than that.

Then the Republicans did an about face and teamed up with the Southern Democrats to kill the bill altogether.

And Eisenhower can take a good part of the blame himself.

Because it wasn't precisely the bill he asked, he expressed himself as lukewarm to it, even though it was the only bill which seemed to have a chance of passing.

His coolness encouraged Republicans to kill it. If he had fought for it, he could have saved it. Three Republican votes would have turned the trick.

Monday the two Texas Democrats who are the leaders of Congress—Speaker Rayburn and Sen. Johnson—talked of possible adjournment in a week or so.

They said this either because they meant it or as a needle to the Republicans to start compromising on the civil rights bill.

That bill passed the House as Eisenhower wanted it. In the Senate, Democrats changed it so much that the Republicans are demanding the Democrats undo what they did.

Unless the two sides agree, there'll be no civil rights law. Rayburn and Johnson linked early adjournment with the bill.

Rayburn says if there's a stalemate, he's for going home. Johnson talked of a quick ending if there's no stalemate.

Also killed in this Congress—along with school aid—were the flood insurance program and corn price stabilization. Eisenhower asked for both.

These were the major items passed: Authority for Eisenhower to use American troops in the Middle East to stop Communist aggression; a federal housing program; an increase in interest rates on federal savings bonds; extension of the excise and corporation taxes for another 15 months; an increase in the loan authority of the Small Business Administration; approval for this country to

Packing Firm Makes Peace with Picket
ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Krey Packing Co. and Miss Mary Ann Unnerstall, a determined young woman, made peace Monday as pickets put down their placards and marched away.

A week ago Miss Unnerstall went on a one-woman strike, contending she was discharged as an office clerk because of her union activities. A picket line of 1,000 members of Local 545 of the Butchers, Sausage Makers and Packinghouse Workers Union soon was organized. It shut the plant down.

Krey announced Monday Miss Unnerstall will return to work as a plant clerk. It said this was the same job she turned down when she went on strike.

ADMITS STEALING RENT FUNDS
CINCINNATI (AP)—City Urban Renewal officials say an employee, Richard R. Hobe, 30, has admitted stealing about $300 in rental payments on property the city has bought for slum clearance. Investigators said Hobe, arrested Monday, told them he collected full rent from persons who still live on the property, but in his accounts, showed that only part payment was made.

DOPE TRAFFIC—Enough heroin to produce more than ten million shots was shipped from Milan, Italy, into the United States, narcotics agents of three nations report. The agents, from Switzerland, Turkey and Italy, say the heroin was produced in Turkey (see Newsmap), smuggled to Italy via Switzerland and refined in a Milan laboratory. It was then routed to America. The Milan price of the dope (about 154 pounds) would be about $15,000. But on the current U.S. black market it would run into millions, officials said.

Milk Strike Okayed By Stark Farmers

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A Stark County meeting of dairy farmers has favored a milk strike, and another rally will be held tonight at Wellington in Lorain County.

The Ohio Dairy Farmers Bargaining Assn., headed by Joe N. Brown of Jefferson, Ashtabula County, has been sponsoring the series of four meetings.

At an auction barn at Waco Monday night an audience of about 300 discussed withholding milk from the market and most of them stood up when asked to signify they favored a strike.

Previous meetings were at North Bloomfield, Trumbull County, and Creston, Wayne County.

Brown says his organization wants to get $5.50 a hundredweight instead of $4.50 for milk consumed as bottled milk or cream and $4 instead of $3.25 for milk used in manufacturing processes.

'Cool' Getup Backfires On 18-Year-Old Robber
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—He walked into the record shop wearing grey flannel Bermuda shorts and bright red knee socks—a pretty cool getup.

After listening to some hot jazz and cha-cha rhythms, he was unable to keep his feet still. He bolted from the store—taking with him 10 record albums.

Clerk Irvin Medway dashed after him. Police joined the chase. It was an easy matter following those bare knees and red socks through the downtown, lunch hour crowds.

And despite being dressed for a race, he was caught by long pants police and carted off to the stationhouse. There he was charged with attempted robbery, larceny and receiving stolen goods.

He was identified as Harry Sawyer, 18, of Philadelphia.

Says Tranquilizers Not Key to Mental Health
DALLAS (AP)—The solution to improve mental health is not gulping down handfuls of tranquilizing pills, says an Ohio medical authority.

The solution lies in self knowledge, honest personal evaluation and greater understanding of the brain and its function," said Dr. Chauncey D. Leake, assistant dean of the college of medicine at Ohio State University.

We have a wonderful combination for color-slide "shooting and showing" thrills. For "shooting" it's the famous Kodak Pony 135 Camera—a fine "miniature" that takes gorgeous color slides, yet has all the controls for serious picture taking.

For "showing" it's the new Kodak 300 Projector—a slim, compact projector that shows slides big, bright and beautiful even in a small room. Price for the outfit? Just $59.50.

Ralph A. Applegates Reside In Pittsburgh after Wedding

Residing at 533 Venture St. in Pittsburgh, Pa. are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Applegate who pledged their marriage vows July 20.

The ceremony took place at the Nativity of Our Lord Church in Pittsburgh with Rev. Glenn A. Conner officiating.

The bride, the former Rosemary Kretz, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Kretz of 504 Venture St., Pittsburgh. The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Ruth A. Stewart of Union Ave., Washingtonville.

White gladioli combined with white shasta daisies decorated the altar and marked the family pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her white imported organza dress, embroidered with a lily design, was fashioned with a tight-fitting bodice and flowing floor length skirt ending in a chapel train.

Her veil of French illusion was held in place by a circlet of lily of the valley and white roses. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white carnations, lily of the valley and pink sweetheart roses.

The bride's sister, Joan, her only attendant, was dressed in a floor length white imported organdy gown. Her flowers were pink sweetheart roses.

Frank J. Weiss of Pittsburgh was best man. The bride's brother, Sylvan W. Kretz, and Jack E. Ley of Pittsburgh, ushers.

A reception was held at the Beverly Hills Hotel. The 400 guests were from Salem, Washingtonville and Pennsylvania.

The bride was graduated from Perry High School and also attended the University of Pittsburgh and the Earl Wheeler School of Charm. She is a private secretary for a purchasing agent of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.

The bridegroom was graduated from Leetonia High School. After a four-year tour of duty with the Air Force, he enrolled at Ohio University, and has since transferred to the University of Pittsburgh, where he expects to continue his studies in engineering. He is at present employed as a draftsman by Loeding Engineers at Ambridge, Pa.

The couple honeymooned in Canada and New York.

81 Attend Annual Biery Family Event

Descendants of Jacob Muhleman and Samuel Biery held their 39th annual reunion Sunday at the Clark Biery farm in Warren.

Eighty-one guests from Warren, Alliance, Lisbon, Salem and West Virginia enjoyed the basket dinner.

Clark Biery presided at the business session when the following officers were chosen for 1958: President, Jacob Biery of Warren; vice president, Willard Biery of Warren; and secretary-treasurer, Eugene Conway of Salem.

Appointed to the table committee were Mrs. Floyd Crawford of Salem, Mrs. Paul Handwork of Canfield, Mrs. Rose Riley of Lisbon, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Purser. William Muhleman of Salem will be in charge of refreshments.

Centennial Park will be the site of the 1958 gathering to be held the second Sunday in August.

Cessna Family Holds 38th Annual Reunion

Officers were reelected when the W. B. Cessna family held its 38th annual reunion Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Cessna of Rosemont. Fifty-nine attended.

Joseph Cessna will serve in 1958 as president, Mrs. Margaret Anderson as secretary and Mrs. Lewis S. Campbell as historian.

Games of horseshoes and badminton were enjoyed following the basket dinner. The president conducted a short business meeting preceding the buffet supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thomas of the Damascus Road invited the group to hold the 1958 reunion at their home on the second Sunday of August.

Miss Nadene Barnes Surprised on Birthday

Miss Nadene Barnes of the Damascus Road was surprised Friday night when 11 of her classmates came to her home to help her celebrate her 19th birthday.

The event was arranged by Miss Janet Mincks of Fairfield. Supper was cooked out of doors, and games were played on the lawn. The table was centered with a decorated cake, and the honoree received gifts.

Campus Fashions Recall '30s

Girls starting off to college this fall may note a nostalgic look in the eyes of their mothers, as they help pack the new campus clothes. For the last word in college styles, as established in the St. Louis junior market, is almost an echo of the 1930s.

There's the Chanel look, the midy, the pleated skirt, the unfitted, no-waistline silhouette — all very similar to campus styles of a generation ago. Even the raccoon coat is back, both in full-length versions and as trim on cloth or leather coats.

Somehow, the 1957 vintage clothes manage to look more graceful than those of Mother's day — perhaps because of the greater skill of today's designer and manufacturer. They have an easy, stretched-out look, come in a variety of handsome fabrics and are flattering to slim young figures.

TURN BACK THE CLOCK — This flannel blouse suit with vivid striped sweater brings back flapper memories.

SKORT — That's the new name of pleated shorts with attached bloomers, shown here in cotton plaid and slated as the newest campus craze by St. Louis designers.

SWEATER COLORS — Chanel look in a doekskin flannel suit, blouse and felt hat, in favorite cashmere colors.

CAR COAT — A campus must, in handsome tweed, right with skirts or slacks. A junior fashion designed in St. Louis.

73 Attend Annual Hahlen Family Reunion

Seventy-three relatives were present at the annual Hahlen family reunion Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hahlen near North Georgetown. A basket dinner was served at noon.

During the business meeting, Oscar Hoffman and Mrs. John Bradley of RD, Alliance were retained as president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, for the coming year.

United States Has 5 Million Hunting Dogs

By The Associated Press

If you took all the dogs in Western Europe and crammed them into adjoining kennels, the resulting uproar might sound something like a fashionable metropolitan suburb on a moonlit night.

There are fewer than two million dogs in eight representative European countries. And there are suburban householders who are convinced they can count that many on any given afternoon by keeping an eye fixed on the little blue spruce in their own front yard.

The canine population of the U.S. is past the 25 million. About one-third of these dogs are the offspring of more or less sanctioned romances. Five million of them are hunting dogs.

Sporting and working dogs make up an even larger proportion of the European dog population, according to a compilation made recently by the Gaines Dog Research Center.

But the proportion of pups to population is far less, even among the utilitarian types. This, at least from a canine blue nose's point of view, is probably just as well because, except in Sweden the incidence of purebred registrations indicates that European pup production in general is whimsical to say the least.

This is because of, and not despite, the fact that some of the world's most iron-handed kennel clubs and stud books operate in Europe. The breed societies of such popular—in America—dogs as Great Danes, German shepherds, German shorthaired pointers, boxers, weimaraners and other work for quality, no quantity. In some cases they not only decide what few of the best puppies should be eligible for registration, but for survival.

In the survey, Holland showed a preponderance of hounds and working dogs, but had room for a sizable count of poodles (still used as both hunting and herd dogs in Europe) and terriers.

Sweden gave dachshunds and harriers its first three positions, but reported adherents for miniature poodles — which currently are enjoying a U.S. boom—and Pekingese.

Similar pictures prevailed in Belgium, Denmark, Norway and Switzerland. Occurring frequently in several countries were hamiltonstovare, a Swedish rabbit hound, and Norwegian and Swiss models of the same animal which is little known here. Missing from the popular list was America's favorite rabbit chaser, the beagle hound.

Also missing: two other breeds ranking regularly among the top 10 in the U.S.—the chihuahua and the Boston terrier.

And for good reason. They're strictly western hemisphere products.

Household Hints

A tiny bit of silver polish rubbed on the bottom of your iron will remove stains. Wipe off with a very well wrung-out damp cloth, then let dry before using.

Add a couple of teaspoons of cream of tartar and a quart of hot water and simmer for a few minutes to remove discoloration from aluminum pots.

Cover the pan in which you are melting chocolate to hasten the process. It's best to melt the chocolate over hot water to avoid scorching.

BOTTLE BABY — With the aid of a doll's bottle, Howard Lorber starts a hare-raising experiment at his Paramus, N.J., home. The nine-year-old youngster found the newly born rabbit, apparently abandoned, and is raising it on milk.

Former Prisoners in China To Speak to Friends Aug. 22

Adele and Allyn Rickett, who were held in Chinese prisons four years, will relate their experiences at a meeting Thursday evening, Aug. 22, at 8 in the Sixth St. Friends Meeting House.

The public session is being sponsored by the Friends Quarterly Meeting peace committee.

The Ricketts went to China in 1948 on a Fulbright Fellowship granted by the U.S. State Department under treaty with the Chiang Kai-Shek regime. They studied and later taught in Peking under the old and new regimes, and experienced first-hand the upheaval of the "old way" during the revolution.

During this time, the Ricketts reported what they saw and heard in political and intellectual circles to the U.S. Embassy by arrangement with U.S. intelligence officials.

During World War II Rickett was a marine intelligence officer and continued in intelligence reporting while in China. In 1951 he was arrested for espionage and spent four years in Chinese prisons.

Mrs. Rickett, after a period of house arrest, was imprisoned for her activities against the "People's Government." They served their terms and returned to the United States where they wrote a book reviewing their adventure entitled, "Prisoners of Liberation."

Mayor Warren reported he handled 176 cases in July. Eighty-eight were state cases and he took in $6,353 in fines of which village received $5,106 and state received $1,246. Village share of state cases amounted to $1,789, his report showed.

Ballot

place to Joseph E. Woods of Washingtonville for the Leetonia exempted village board of education because his petition also was circulated in Mahoning County and lacked required number of signatures.

For the first time in the board's history, a state law, which went into effect Jan. 1, 1956, was invoked to deny a ballot place to Kenneth Leishman, who filed for Washington Township trustee.

The new law provides any candidate at the primary election cannot become a candidate for any office in the following general election, O'Hanlon said. Leishman unsuccessfully sought the Republican nomination for mayor of Salineville at the May primary, he explained.

Others Approved

The board granted ballot places to 242 other non-petition candidates for village, township and school district posts and accepted 43 questions and issues, including four state proposals and four questions and issues which have not been filed. They include a one-half mill levy in East Liverpool, a one-half mill park levy in Salem and two Negley school district levies, O'Hanlon said.

The board delayed action on Rich's petition for County Judge until July to allow Howard to present evidence to back up his protest. Howard said he had been informed that at least three signatures on Rich's petition were obtained by telephone consent. Rich, who also attended the board's meeting, denied the allegation. O'Hanlon said if one signature on a petition is invalid it would throw out the entire petition of 25 names.

If Howard can prove his charge, and the three questioned signatures are on three separate petitions, Rich would lose 75 signatures and his petition would be invalid. Rich submitted 330 signatures and 310 are required, O'Hanlon said.

Ballot places to 10 other county court candidates were accepted.

Beams Upset At School Site

This picture, taken by Paul Shone, shows the fabricated steel trestles which fell from a trailer and damaged upright beams at the new senior high school.

When the load tipped after being loosened, the overhead trestles fell against already erected beams, bending many of those already in place. The overhead trestles are to be used for the gymnasium roofing.

The mishap delayed construction work about a week, a school board spokesman said.

In the Washington Court House problem, a part of the dispute is whether the city system actually will carry out its announced plans to build a new elementary school in the tract. Smith and Terhune said the plans are set. Miami Trace Board members J. Herbert Perrill and Richard Snyder, and County Supt. W. J. Hilty, said the plans are not set.

Real Issue Brought Out

The rural school leaders conceded, however, the disputed tract—which has no sizable tax valuation nor children living in it now—is not the real issue. They said the transfer would put the city school district next to a rich industrial tract, in position for a further annexation that would hurt the countywide Miami Trace District.

State board members have indicated an increasing reluctance to approve school transfers, in the wake of the county-to-city annexations, which weaken county districts.

At the meeting, the board members asked Holt to draw up a new statement of policy, for action in September, that may openly oppose transfers which would "reduce a county school district to the danger point or look like they might."

"In fact," he said, "one such message came from the Soviets in Washington while I was in Moscow meeting with the top men in the Russian secret police, and I had to talk fast to get out of that one."

Rushmore, who spent most of the day on the stand, said information for the magazine's stories came from "madams, procurers, call girls and private detectives."

Rushmore testified he quit his job as editor of Confidential in the late summer of 1955 because of "increasingly repulsive material" being published. He cited a story about actress Kim Novak as being "pornography."

He said he personally had written stories about Marilyn Monroe, John Garfield, former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer.

Rushmore said that he wanted to write a story about Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt but was overruled by publisher Robert Harrison because it wouldn't be "politically wise" to publish it.

Streetscar Strike Tenses Polish City

LODZ, Poland (AP) — Communist authorities feared armed guards at every street corner of this tense city today and braced for a showdown with 10,000 defiant transport strikers. Their strike for higher pay paralyzed the city, once hailed as a Communist model for all Poland.

Police tear gas bombs sent five persons to hospitals in one outbreak Monday. Other strikers barricaded themselves in car barns to prevent strike breaking. Streetcars are the only public transportation in Lodz, a city of 700,000 about 75 miles southwest of Warsaw. Dubbed "Red City" by the Communists, it is Poland's second largest municipality.

The strikers ignored government leaflets branding the strike illegal and calling on the strikers to return to their jobs.

'CHURCH in the SKY'

HERE'S A story that should shame anyone who's too tired to drive a few blocks to church. In Bogota, Colombia, worshippers travel 2,000 feet high in the Andes to make the trek to the "Church in the Sky." Some climb over rocky terrain while others reach the top by motor car or by funicular car. But, more spectacular and popular with thousands is "teleferico," a cable car which carries about 25 persons in a gondola. The ride takes little more than five minutes and gives passengers a panoramic view of Bogota, which is, itself, 8,000 feet above sea level. Every Sunday and feast day, at least ten thousand worshippers visit the shrine, named in honor of the Christ of Monserrate. The original shrine was the site for a small chapel back in 1620. The present temple was constructed in 1920, when the image of Christ on the Cross was installed in the main altar. Some 600 thousand come here annually.

Arrow points to shrine as seen from city of Bogota.

Teleferico cars rotate between the station at base and shrine on the mountain.

Worshippers line terrace wall. White church can be seen from many miles around.

This is a service inside the church as hundreds pray for release from affliction.

Kenmar Scores 7-6 Win Over Parker's

Marvels, Collens Win at Kelley

Hall Smashes Homer After Oesch Walks

Kenmar nipped Parker's 7-6 in the last half of the seventh inning, but not until the losers had trailed, taken the lead and then faltered in the late innings at Kelley Park last night.

In other city league games played at Kelley, Marvels defeated Bliss 5-3. Furnace whipped the Jets 9-4, and Collens ripped Chappell's 9-5.

Kenmar started right off in the initial frame, getting four hits, on four straight singles by Steit, Huda, Reesh and Munyon.

While holding Kenmar scoreless for the next four innings, Parker's fought back, scoring three in the third on an error and three straight hits by Carmolo, Billet and Pridon.

Parker's then took the lead with two more tallies in the fourth, as Oesch walked and Red Hall smashed a home run. The losers increased their lead to 6-4 in the sixth when Hall reached first on a force play and successive singles by Harrington and Harp which brought Hall across the plate.

Kenmar tallied two in the sixth to even the count. In the last of the seventh stanza the winners tallied again. Shoff walked and Beatrice was safe on an error. Mulch got an infield hit to load the bases and Shoff then scored the winning run when Huda reached on an error.

Although the Marvels were out hit eight to three, the margin in the runs column was in their favor. The Marvels scored a run in the second. Rogowsky walked, Rayniak got a bloop single, Barry walked, filling the sacks, and Rogowsky then scored on an infield hit.

Bliss took the lead in the third with two markers on Jordon's single, a sacrifice, a walk, and Kyser's single scoring Jordon and an error, scoring Kekel who had walked.

Marvels scored three in the third to regain the lead on Hahn's single, a two base error, a hit batsman, and Bill Ehrhart's three-run triple.

Bliss ended its scoring with one in the fifth when Kyser reached first on a fielder's choice. Perkins singled to center and Kyser scored when the center fielder fumbled the ball. Ehrhart added an insurance run when he was hit by the pitcher, moved to second and third on bad pitches and stole home.

Aided by six errors, Furnace got seven unearned runs and went on to lace the Jets.

Furnace broke on top in the first inning with two runs. Allison had reached on an error and Manning tripled to deep center to drive in the first run. Gallo then pulled a double inside the left field line to score Manning.

The Jets came back with three in their half of the first. With two out and McCormick on first via a single, Fife hit a pop-up to the infield. The ball was dropped, Fife scored, and McCormick went to second.

Marks of the Jets was hit by a pitched ball and both runners moved up on a wild pitch. Hardy followed with a two-run single into left field.

Jets made it 4-2 in the second when McCormick singled to left, driving in Polen who reached on a fielders choice.

Furnace added one in the sixth and two in the seventh to win the game.

Collens downed an improved Chappell's team which made only three errors throughout the game. Collens scored first when, with one out in the second frame, B. Moulin walked.

After Pizca singled and Keefe walked to load the bases, Harbert brought in the first run with a fly ball, with two out, L. Moulin walked to load the bases, and J. Moulin walked forcing in a run.

Chappell's tied it with two in the second. Burrier struck out but reached first after the catcher dropped the ball. Maroscher singled and Doyle sacrificed both runners up a base, and reached second when the pitcher threw the ball in the stands. One run scored.

Pauline then executed a perfect squeeze play to score Maroscher. However, Collens added three in the third and one in each of the remaining innings.

Questions and Answers

Q — Why is the word "love" used to men zero in a tennis match?

A — The term comes from the French word "l'oeuf" meaning egg or zero. When tennis came from France to England the term was introduced but spelled "love."

School Board Candidates Split On Consolidation Issue

Two Favor Fairfield-Waterford Merger While 2 Are Against It

COLUMBIANA — Four candidates for two places on the Fairfield - Waterford board of education are equally divided in their opinions concerning the consolidation of the Fairfield and Waterford schools.

Of the candidates, all from Fairfield township, Edgar V. Bell and Stanley Yeager favor the dissolution of the consolidation while Charles Cook and Edward Kirk represent the faction in favor of the consolidation.

The terms of James R. Cooper of Fairfield township and Henry Garrod of New Waterford, leaders of the respective boards favoring the consolidation, expire this year.

Wayne Rupert of New Waterford will be the only remaining member of the original board. He has favored the consolidation from the time it was first proposed.

Edwin Dillon of Fairfield township, who opposed the consolidation, resigned from the board last year, and is now a candidate for membership on the county board of education. Two Fairfield township women, Mrs. Curney Converse of Lower Elkton Road and Mrs. Faye Jones of East Fairfield, are members of the board with Rupert.

More than 1,200 admissions to Firestone Park Sunday afternoon and evening, brought admissions this year near the total of 39,000 for last year.

MERLE ESTERLY, candidate for one of the two offices of Fairfield township constable, has been serving nearly a year as a special constable by appointment of the township trustees. Two other candidates are Constables Robert Van Fossan and Delbert Kunkle.

The 10 Clipper lettermen are to report next Saturday morning for their equipment. Other players and candidates will receive their equipment Monday. First practice is set for 8 a.m. Aug. 21.

BASED on its four-year average for 1953-56, the Ohio Department has assigned Firestone American Legion Post a quota of 260 members for 1958. The post has a record for having reached its quota early for a number of years. The 10th Ohio district of 82 posts, largest in the state and which embraces Columbiana county posts, has a quota of 16,069. Rising costs have resulted in Firestone Post raising its annual dues from $5 to $7.

Columbiana County Council of the American Legion Auxiliary will have its August meeting in the Legion home here next Tuesday. Mrs. J. C. Horton of Firestone Post Auxiliary is president of the county organization. Firestone Auxiliary will have its August meeting in the Legion home the following evening.

The Wide Awake class of Grace Evangelical and Reformed church will have a coverdinner dinner in Firestone Park at noon Thursday. Charles McBride, former Columbiana Clipper football star, will be assistant football coach at East Palestine High the coming season.

CANADIAN AIRLINER CRASH — Members of Royal Canadian Air Force para-rescue teams search through the debris of a Maritime Central Airways plane which crashed about 15 miles southwest of Quebec City killing all 79 aboard. Maryland U. Ticket Business Booming

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—The football ticket business is booming at the University of Maryland, thanks to Britain's Queen Elizabeth.

All of the tickets being sold, of course, are for the North Carolina game Oct. 19—the game Queen Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip, plan to attend.

Monday was the first day the ticket window had been open since announcement in Washington Friday that the royal couple planned to attend the game. Ticket Manager Eddie Bean had no exact count of those sold but he said it was the biggest rush since Maryland played in the Orange and Sugar Bowls.

Ruling Made on Ohio School Board's Power

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education has no power to approve the transfer for school territory that has been annexed by a purposes of only a part of the municipality.

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe made that ruling today for E. E. Holt, state superintendent of public instruction.

The ruling referred to a portion of the Warren Twp. School District of Trumbull County which had been annexed by Warren.

MOTHER, CHILD HAVE POLIO

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—An expectant mother and a 6-year-old girl are the second and third polio cases admitted to Emory Hospital this year. Butler County officials said Monday Mrs. George Witte, 22, College Corner, Ind., had received two Salk vaccine shots and has a non-paralytic case, while Henrietta Belle Smith, 6, of College Corner, Ohio, had no Salk shots and has some signs of paralysis.

FINGER RED SPIES — Boris Morros, 67-year-old Hollywood movie director who led a double life for 12 years as a counter-spy, gestures with his finger during a press conference in the U. S. District Attorney's office in New York. Russian-born Morros, who worked under FBI instructions while posing as a Soviet spy, was chief witness against Jack and Myra Sobel and Jacob Albam, all of whom were convicted of spying for Moscow. Morros said his cloak-and-dagger days are over.

U.S. Employment Hits High in July

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's employment rose to an all-time high of 67,200,000 for July, the government announced today.

The increase of 700,000 workers over the June total was attributed mainly to the continued hiring of young people in summer jobs and a slight increase in farm work source. The joint report was made by Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

Some moderate job reductions were reported among adult workers in educational services and manufacturing, a normal occurrence in July.

Unemployment for the month was three million, a drop of 300,000, caused by the employment of students and graduates who had been listed as job seekers on the previous months record.

Mail Carrier Stymied By Over-Friendly Pup

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Furious dogs are the usual bane of postmen, but letter-carrier E. M. Robinson has been stymied by an over-friendly pup.

Robinson didn't mind the dog's friendliness each time he approached the mail box of the Norman home. It was just that the pup's three-year-old master had attached a water hose to the dog's collar with the spray directed straight ahead.

Gruen Watch Company Borrows $1.7 Million

CINCINNATI (AP)—Gruen Industries, Inc., has borrowed $1,750,000 from Cincinnati, New York and Swiss banks, and has dropped earlier plans for long term financing help.

Gruen Monday announced that three directors have resigned—Chairman Burton M. Joseph, William N. Johnson and Dr. Albert J. Greenberg, all of Minneapolis.

President E. H. Weitzel said the loan will be used to complete defense contracts and to finance watch distribution during the usually heavy fall and winter seasons.

Howard L. Gould, Gruen associate counsel, said the resignations of the three directors are due to the pressure of other business.

Dynamite is Taken At Inoperative Mine

LISBON—The Columbiana County Sheriff's office is investigating the theft of 5 sticks of dynamite, 6 caps and an undetermined amount of powder from an unused mine near Salineville sometime in the last week.

The mine is not in operation and the owner just reported the items missing. Chief Deputy James Miller said he hopes no children picked up the caps and sticks of powder, not realizing how dangerous the dynamite caps can be.

Foresters say that in Kansas shelterbelts, planted during the early '30s to check dust storms, only pines and cedars are still living and effective.

Two Firms Develop New Synthetic Tire

WASHINGTON (AP)—Development of a new all-synthetic truck tire has been announced by the Esso Research and Engineering Co. Esso, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Tire Co., Mansfield, Ohio, developed the heavy duty tire for the Army after three years of research.

Made from butyl, a synthetic rubber created from oil refinery gases, the new tire represents the closest approach yet to making this country entirely free from dependence on natural rubber for defense, an Esso spokesman said.

The tire will mean savings in the defense program as it does not deteriorate in storage, Esso said.

Tungsten was first isolated in its pure state in 1771 by K. W. Scheele, a Swedish chemist.

Who today was sold a piece of "blue sky."

He'd stepped in a showroom—out of the rain.

Was sold a new car before he could explain!

How he hated the styling—so high and square

And in new features it was really bare.

"I got a real bargain—the buy of my life—

But how do I ever convince my own wife?"

Moral: You're paying for a new car... make sure you get one!

When you buy a new car, put your money on tomorrow—not yesterday. Swept-Wing Dodge actually obsoletes other cars in its field. Should you invest in high, boxy styling when Dodge offers the low, low look of tomorrow? Should you invest in outmoded coil springs when Dodge offers new Torsion-Aire Ride? Should you invest in an old-fashioned lever-type transmission when Dodge offers the ease of Push-Button Driving? In other things, too—engines, brakes, interiors—Dodge is years ahead.
